—The 10th Anniversary of Advanced Telemedicine:

What's the direction for the next 10 years?—

This year will celebrate the 10th anniversary of our advanced telemedicine which started in 2002. With new technologies and great needs, our partners have expanded to 188 institutions in 30 countries, and over 300 teleconferences and live demonstrations were performed with attractive contents and beautiful images. There is no doubt that digital video transport system (DVTs) has been a main tool but we should recognize that other new technologies have also been developed with better user interfaces and even better quality.

We would like to review our activities during these 10 years looking back what we learned and to think seriously what the direction is for the next 10 years with all the friends who supported us and worked together.
