

【 Venue 】

Kyushu University Hospital (Japan),
 Japanese Red Cross Osaka Hospital (Japan),
 Saga University (Japan),
 Hyogo Medical University (Japan),
 Kyoto University (Japan),
 Fujita Health University (Japan),
 Saga-ken Medical Center Koseikan (Japan)

【 Comments 】

The meeting on minimally invasive gastrointestinal surgery had been held mainly at Fujita Medical College (F), Kyoto University (K), Kyushu University (Q), and their associated institutions. This was the third remote meeting during the Covid-19 pandemic. Three case presentations, one educational lecture, and one special lecture were presented, mainly discussing the latest topics and future prospects of upper gastrointestinal surgery. Both video and audio were smooth, and there was meaningful discussion.

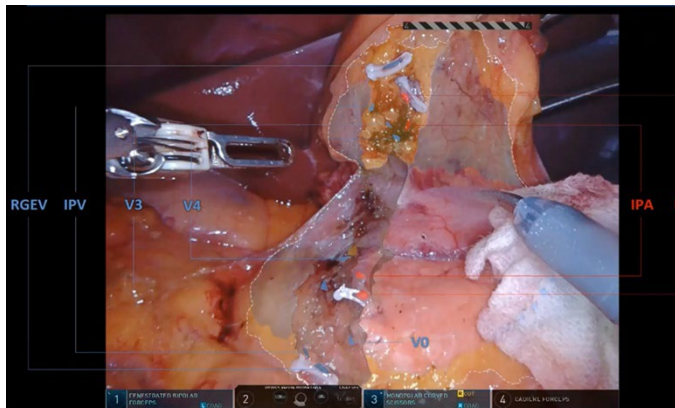

Monitor shows connected sites.

Picture taken at: Kyushu University Hospital

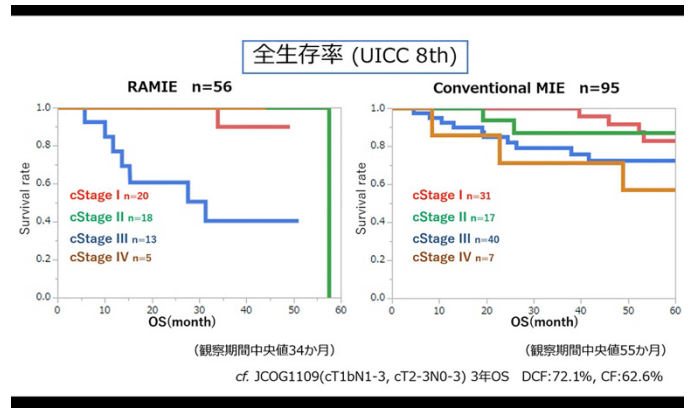

Dr. Nishigori makes a presentation.

Picture taken at: Kyushu University Hospital

A presented slide.

Picture taken at: Kyushu University Hospital

A presented slide.

Picture taken at: Kyushu University Hospital

A presented slide.

Picture taken at: Kyushu University Hospital

Dr. Shinohara makes a presentation.

Picture taken at: Kyushu University Hospital