The 1st Fukuoka Oncofertility Network Lecture

【 Connecting institutions 】	【 Comments 】
Participants joined from approximately 20 institutions, including Kyushu University Hospital (Japan), International University of Health and Welfare Okawa Campus (Japan), Kyushu Cancer Center (Japan), and Kurume University (Japan).	We held the 1st Fukuoka Oncofertility Network Lecture Meeting in a hybrid format to promote fertility preservation before cancer treatment among young and AYA-generation patients and strengthen collaboration between cancer treatment and reproductive medicine facilities. In total, 32 participants attended on-site and 42 joined online. Multidisciplinary professionals, including physicians, nurses, and cancer support counselors, exchanged knowledge on oncofertility and patient support.
