#2142

2026.04.20

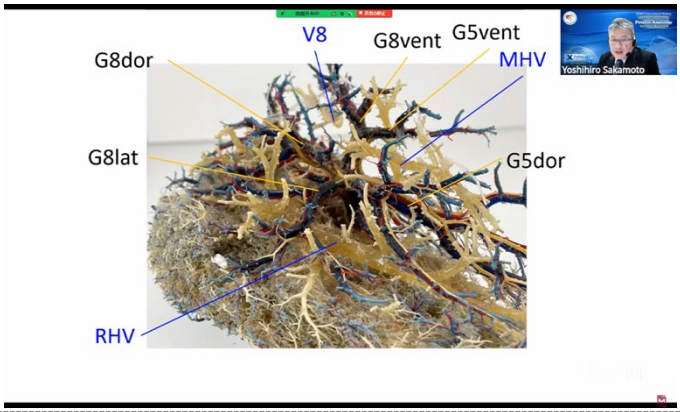

International Webinar
-Precision Anatomy for Minimally Invasive HBP Surgery-

【 Connecting institutions 】	【 Comments 】
ASAN Medical Center (Korea, Republic of), Chiba U (Japan), Columbia U Irving Medical Center (United States), Far Eastern Memorial H (Taiwan), Gunma U (Japan), Institute of Science Tokyo Yushima Campus (Japan), Kagoshima U (Japan), Kobe U (Japan), Kyorin U Mitaka Campus (Japan), Manipal H (India), Nara Medical U (Japan), Showa Medical U (Japan), St. Joseph H of Joinville (Brazil), The Cancer Institute H of JFCR (Japan), U H of Ulm (Germany), U Hospital Basel (Switzerland), U of Tokyo (Japan) (Alphabetical Order)	On April 20, 2026, the JSHBPS International Webinar “PAM-HBP Surgery Project 2026 - Precise Anatomy for Liver Resection -” was held. The program featured lectures by experts from Japan, Korea, and Taiwan on caudate lobe anatomy and anatomical liver resection using ICG fluorescence imaging, followed by discussions with international panelists. More than 530 participants joined from around the world.

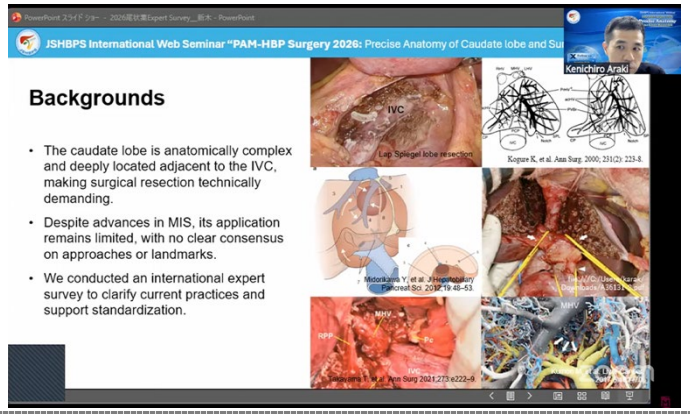

Monitor shows connected sites

Picture taken at：Kyushu University Hospital

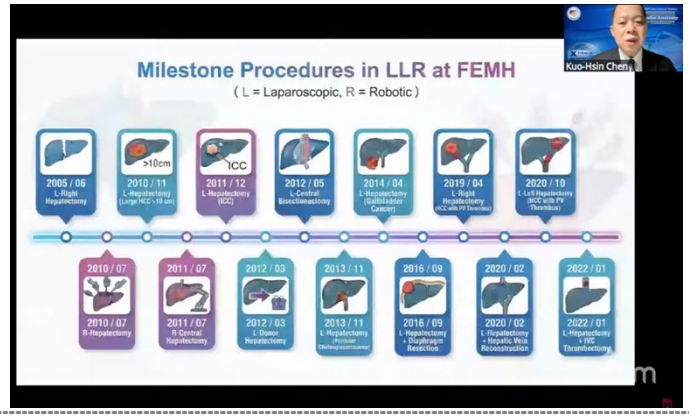

A presentation slide

Picture taken at：Kyushu University Hospital

A presentation slide

Picture taken at：Kyushu University Hospital

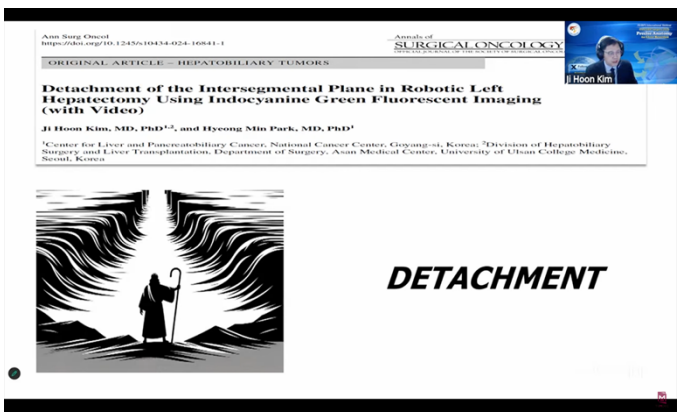

A presentation slide

Picture taken at：Kyushu University Hospital

A presentation slide

Picture taken at：Kyushu University Hospital

A presentation slide

Picture taken at：Kyushu University Hospital